Generally speaking, cold air is a mortal enemy of the complexion; nevertheless ere are exceptions with persons of high color, who support it easily; while those of a pale tint find themselves better in warm air. The manner of living in point of view of alimentation has a great influence on the complexion, because there is an intimate relation be tween the state of the stomach and the tint of the complexion. Persons of high color spoil their complexion by into the excess of eating insufficient, hoping to preserve freshness of complexion; they only injure their stomach, and give themselves a pale, bluish tint. Even tight clothes have an important influence on the complexion. FOR THE CURE OF

AGUE AND FEVER

HILLS AND FEVER The proprietor of this celebrated medicipe justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the safe, certain, speedy, and permaneut cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and South western country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion, that in no case whatever will it fail to cure, if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prodent. and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has toon checked, more especially in difficult and ong standing cases. Usually, this melieine will not require any aid to keep the
